01 ABOUT

THREE SKILL SETS THAT RARELY COME TOGETHER

Post-production coordinator, writer and content curator, with a career in Brazilian film and television that runs from global streamers to independent projects. What sets me apart is combining three skill sets that rarely come together: technical fluency in scripted post-production, command of original format writing and a critical practice devoted to prestige television.

■ COORDINATION & POST-PRODUCTION

In post-production coordination and assistant coordination, I have worked on high-profile productions for Netflix, Disney+, Star+, HBO Max and Paramount+, among them Bom Dia, Verônica, A Magia de Aruna, Desejos S.A., Luva de Pedreiro, O Rei da Joga and As Seguidoras, Paramount+'s first Brazilian scripted original. At Porta dos Fundos I led the weekly sketch delivery operation across multiple platforms at high volume. At A Fábrica I ran the post life cycle of Brazilian series and features, from planning to final delivery.

Across all of these the focus was the same: international technical specs, schedule and asset management, and precise translation between executive requirements and the editorial and finishing teams.

■ WRITING & FORMATS

As a writer and format creator I have developed original content for Discovery Networks, NotCo and Descomplica, from educational programming to branded content, always attentive to the voice, format and editorial identity of each platform. I hold a BA in Film and Media from UFF and a graduate certificate in Screenwriting from Academia Internacional de Cinema.

■ CRITICISM & CURATION

That same eye sustains my critical and curatorial practice. On Medium as ex-TV Nerd I write about the language, formats and trends of television and streaming, and my thesis and articles examine the HBO dramedy and the limits of so-called quality television. At Maracutaia.fm I handle music curation and video editing for sets from Rio's underground electronic scene. It is a practice that widens my range and sharpens my editorial sense of what makes content work.

WHAT I'M LOOKING FOR

I am looking for roles where this combination of technical rigor, story instinct and critical judgment creates real value: content operations, post-production coordination, editorial analysis and curation.

“QUALITY TELEVISION” AND “COMEDY” ON AMERICAN PAY TV: WHEN DID COMEDIES BECOME 30-MINUTE DRAMAS? ↗

An analysis of how HBO comedies — with Enlightened as the case study — challenged the divide between humor and drama. It proposes a rereading of the concept of “quality television”, until then reserved for drama, and identifies the dramedy as a key piece in the evolution of pay TV.

ARTICLE

HBO AND THE RUPTURE OF THE DIFFERENTIATION DISCOURSE: THE CASE OF “ENLIGHTENED” ↗

An investigation of how Enlightened exposes the limits of the prestige long associated with HBO. It questions the discourse of differentiation that underwrites “quality television” and points to the paradoxes of the dramedy in the subscription market.
